Summer.

In the death of Mr. Summer, the nation has In the death of Mr. Summer, the nation has suffered an almost irreparable loss. Although the great work of his life, the championship of the cause of an oppressed portion of the human race, had been crowned with the victor's wreath of laurel, he was yet a great power for good in the land, which is now so sadly in need of such the land, which is now so eadly in need of such illustrious examples. Mr. Sumner had the true nobility of character. As a legislator, he possessed that faith in the ultimate triumph of the right, and, therefore, the moral power, from which arises the patience to endure the taunts and scorns of to-day, in the proud consciousness that to-morrow will be the hour of supreme victory. These characteristics are indicative of the genuine statesman, and by their absence may we know the arrant demagogue and scheming politician. The latter lives only for the present; convictions he has none;

gogue and scheming politician. The latter lives only for the present; convictions he has none; and his ideas and actions are formed and directed to meet the varying currents of popular opinion. He is an imitator,—a servile follower where other and notier men have led the way.

Charles Sunner was conspicuous among those who, with prophetic vision, look beyond the present, grasping principles whose ultimate triumph will redound to the good of humanity. In the advocacy of such principles, he calmly bore the jeers and reproaches of ignorance and prejudice, believing that the time would surely come when the American people would approve his actions,—thus displaying a moral haspism akin to Butler's Defense of the Sanborn Contract Business.

Col. Forney Mests with a $10,000 Libel Suit.

Special Disputch to The Chicago Pribuns TINGTON, D. C., March 14.—To-day's ins Appublican contains a paragraph stating in effective that Mr. Butler has succeeded in satisfactorily show that Mr. Butler has succeeded in satisfactorily showing that the Sanborn contracts were right and just in letter and spirit, and that, as a result of this showing Mr. Foster would doubtless fail to press to passage the bill repealing the law under which these contracts were executed. Just who inspired this paragraph it is difficult to conceive. Its utter absurdity is apparent, and it does not seem calculated to serve any of Butler's purposes, although it was probably written with that end in view.

And the sailted suit on his hands. The warrant was served on him yesterday while at lunch at Worning's after the ceremonies in the Benate over Benator Sunnar's remains, which he came here to attend, were concluded. It seems that in October, 1872, the Philadelphia Press published an oditorial paragraph about as follows: "Allem Rutherford, a Cameronian, is in the city. Watch him I. Watch him I. He was concerned in the election frauds in North Carolina." Rutherford is from North Carolina, and is Third Auditor of the Tressury. He thinks Forney ought to pay him about $10,000 for using his name is such a manner. He feels particularly hurt at being styled a Cameronian.

Execution of the Outlaw Bid Wallace at Clarkswille, Ark.

Little Box, March 14.—Full particulars of the hanging of Sid Wallace, the Johnson County desperade, are published in the morning papers. Although there was the largest crowd over assembled at Clarksville, everything passed off quietly.

Wallace rot upon the drop at little, dressed in black cloth, seat throughout. When saked what he had to say, he replied to Gentlemen, most of you come here expecting a good long talk. I have no confession to make to men, but to God. I die in defense of myself and my friends. My only regret is not having a dozen lives to give in the cause.

All on the platform shock hands with the prisoner, When pinioned and prepared, he uttered a prayer, "Lord, remember me whom thou art in Thy kingdom." The trap agrung, and the wretch fell the feet. There were but two or three convulsions. The body swayed and trembled some time.

When examined after having hung 50 minutes, the pulsations were strong. The body was cut down at 35 minutes. The body was cut down at 35 minutes. The body was given to Wallace's methas, who said she wanted other some of here to follow the example.

REAL ESTATE. Decided Increase of Business onfidence and Hore Cash.

ales of Valuable City and Suburban tnerease of Speculation in All the South-era Saburbs. New Railroads to Be Built in That vity at Evanston and Other Sub-urbs.

We find an important change this wesk, not only in the feeling in regard to real sease but decided increase of sales. During the two weets particularly and the feeling in regard to real sease but decided increase of sales. During the two weets previous there was pleasy of money offered for the purchase of real estate, the riers of layers and sales are save very much spart. Capitagies vio came here with the intention of making large purchases had assumed that many property owners who had mortgaged their property heavily would be forced to sell in consequence of the low rents. This has, in fact, been the case to some extent, but not so largely as had been assumed. Money is re-pleasly that it is difficult to find employment for if is large loans at even 9 per cont, and though the rates for small loans see still maintained at 10 to 12 per cent, capitalists who cant better through the rates for small loans see still maintained at 10 to 12 per cent, capitalists who cant be decided in the consequence of the control of tate to Mr. John S. Wallis for $800 per front of, alf cash. This is a reduction of about $200 or front foot on the price asked a year ago on a usual terms of, say, one-quarter cash, and a balance in one, two, and three years. In the balance in one, two, and three years. In any sind of times the payment of all cash has always peen considered equal to a reduction of from 10 to 15 per cent in the price at which property would sell for on the usual terms. But there has also been a special cause for the dedine in the value of Wabash avenue property in the last two years. Shortly after the great first it was believed that the changes in business locations in consequence of that event would make Wabash avenue the principal shopping street of the city. Large sums were argended in the erection of business blocks half a mile further south than business had progressed before the fire, and the same endeavons were made to draw trade to that locality as seen made to draw it westward to Pracklin.

ging from $10 to $62.50 per front foot, as fol which the first purchase was eased (24,500) was much below shest the lead has been heal as, and could only have been hought as that price for cash.

A sale of twenty acres in the N. W. 2 of Sec. St. T St. Rt. 15, being one mile and a half southeast of Council, has also been recently made at $2,000 per acre, though three-fourths of the consideration in this case was other property located within the city limits.

Some weeks sgo Mr. R. F. Culver bought fifty acres in the south half of Sec. 1, T. St. Rt. 13, being one and a quarter miles morthwest of the railroad crossing at Washington Heights, the consideration being $23,500. In this case, also, the consideration was mainly of other property inside the city limits.

One thing which seems to be stimulating speculation southward in the prospect of an immediate increase in the railroad facilities in that directors.

The projectors of the south the consideration was mainly of other property first street, and thence along Railroad avoise to South Chicago, have bought the iron for their truck, and propose to have a been sufficiently they will put on a dummy engine and two passenger cars to run hack and forth between South Chicago, but say that if this arrangement does not work astisfactorily they will put on a dummy engine and two passenger cars to run hack and forth between South Chicago and Parkade Station, where the lyde Park trains of the Illinois Central now 'top. As the entire expense of running such admmy would not exceed $10 or $12 per day, including the malaries of conductor and engineer, their alternative seems entirely practicable, if they should be obliged to resort to it. At any rate, the interests of the lake shore and South Chicago and Parkade Station, where the lyde Park trains of the Proprietors of the South Park Commissioners for the lake shores of turning such admmy would not exceed $10 or $12 per day, including the malaries of conductor and engineer, their alternative seems entirely practicable, if they should be obliged to resort to it. At any rate ion was understood to be contingent upon the politics and prudence of the President of the seminary. I refer to the matter simply as a suggestion, and to draw out, if possible, the private history of an institution in which all orthodox people in the West feel a deep interest.

that which, if put in force by the Church, will unterly destroy all this modern Spiritualism? Something sublimer far than table tipping and rape? Woulp it not take away the occupation of all those who to day are enriching themselves by the ordulity and short-sightedness of the people? These words which I have quoted are so full or meaning and truth for this generation that I cannot refrain from a few words of comment. I have been an attendant upon church service, of all denominations for thirty years, and have never heard these texts which I have quoted preached from, or taken in any way as the basis of discourse; and why this seeming overtook? Why this ignoring of plain statement of the words of our Savior? I asswer that it is because the Church to say that it does believe them. I answer again, in the words of Christ, Luke vi., 46, "And why call ye me. Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?"

Now, if these things, which Jesus has said His believers should do, they refuse to put in force, how can they find fault if the advancary should take them up and use them for his own purpose? But I have some one, who thinks he has found out all truth, say those texts do not mean what I have linferred. Or, "that man is an idiot," or "he is crasy." But I tabl you that, until the Church comes up to in great privilege, and gives to the world and to its devotees this truth, this fulfilliment of, the words of Ghrist, this argument which will appeal to man's reason, because he can feel and realized, so long will also continue to retrograde, toce her power, and finally she will find betreef where the autient Belylonish Empire was when, in the midst of the greatest apparent splendor and smoose, there was written on her walls, "Mane, Mone, Tekel. Upharsin I."

And now, lest I should seem to bear with under weight on Dr. Thomas, by having, in this communication spoken of his discourse, and in terms of condemnation of some parts of it, let me say that it is m the spirit of humility and with an honest desire for the truth to p opinion and proper difference. The lieve in permitting each cong to modify its worship to unit lisself, the "form of sound words" is retain nothing contravening the foregoing requis temployed. They permit each one to it also without any metaphysical or dogma ditions. They know that the different tween High and Low have existed for 20 and the function has managered and the second second the function has managered.

to advocate the views of Calvin, he must not require his brethren to be Calvinists. It welcomes the honest and carnest disciple of John Wesley, and permits him to advocate his Arminianism, but forbids him to make an Arminian sect of the Church. It administers baptism by immersion, pouring, and spranking; but forbids the advocates of these various medes to confine it to any one of them. It permits weekly, or daily, or monthly communions, but forbids any universal rule on the subject. It permits weekly, or daily, or monthly communions, but forbids any universal rule on the subject. It permits very High or very Ljow views of the Sacraments and their carnest discussion, but forbids the exclusion of any one who has been baptized in the name of Christ.

Some, failing to make the Church exclusive in one direction, have gone to Rooms. Some, failing to make it exclusive in what they term simon pure Evangelicalism or Calvinism, have started a new sect. The few who have gone in the former direction, and the miserable failure of the "new movement," show that the mass of the Church, both issity and clergy, are sound as to the catholic character of the Church,—that they will not compromise their great mission for a distracted Christianity.

When Dr. De Koven made his great speech in the last General Convention, it was not to propagate his views, which have been saidy misunderstood, but in the interests of toleration. There was an effort made to legislate Ritualism out of the Church. He maintained the rights of the minority and saved the Church from a securing position. Broad Low Churchmen and broad High Churchmen sustained him.

The was in the interests of a broad and catholic Church that he almost became Rishop of Massachusetts, a Low Church diocese. It was in this interest that he received the vote of the clergy of Wisconsia, and would have received the vise of the larry if they had understood the issue. Why, there is not a Bitualistic Church in Wisconsin.

Moravian-Lutheran views of Dr. DeKoven, preferring rather the views of that eminent servant of God, John Wesley, who lived and died a diergyman of the Epissopal Church; yet I should be glad to see Dr. Dekloven Bishop, because he is a very pious man, a very gentlemanly man, a highly executive man, an exceedingly tolerant man, a very faithful man, and especially in the interests of catholic comprehensive liberty.

But, desirous that the public should understand the real issue, I call sitention to the following article. It is the voice of the Church and State, published in New York City, the Low Church organ of the North, edited by John Unton Smith, the particular friend of Mr. Cheney before he reformed, and to whom Mr. Cheney gave authority to represent him in his interests

A report of the contemplated strike at the factory of wilson Bros., in The Targers of has Tuesday, stated that the girk had been recovering $2.50 a doren for the machine-work, which enabled the industrious to make $21 a week. Believing that all women would be very industrious if their industry was so well rewarded, and that all the sentiment expended upon the poor sewing-women was sheef nonsurse if they obtained such good pay for their work, I determined to

and, if such were the facts, not waste any more of my sympathy upon women who were getting much better wages than the average man. All the load talk about woman's rights, too, was all nonsense if they were thus obtaining their rights, and were, in the matter of wages, far shead of the men; and we had better furm round and help the men to their rights in obtaining pay for their services. Accordingly, I started out in search of some of these women, to learn the facts in the case.

I was informed that this shirt-making establishment has the requisition of being the best in the city for working girls; that, while some of the women, yet they were schually necessary in some cases to protect the firm from the carelessness of the shirt-makers, and, although the firm were very siried, yet they were prompt in paying them their wages. Sementimes, during the winter, they had to wait two weeks for their money; but they did not blame the proprietors for that, as it was not so much their famili of the bank-supersion.

The best thing for these women to do is to form a co-operative society of shear Marins. and work for themselves, instead of working for others. It could be done at a little expense. The most it would need to get it started would be resolute, energetic, go-shead women at the head of it, to push it through.

If those women who are now resting separate rooms, and paying so much a week for their board, would unite their misses and put them in one scenarion fund to rest a building in which to irranged business, it would cost no more sheat it does to rest, as they do now, separate apartments. One of their number could be detailed as cook, and prepara for the table whatever was bought, and which could be on as cheap or expensive a scale as their circumstances would persist. It is presumable that many of these women are housekeepers, and have all the furniture that would be needed at present, so that no outlay would be necessary in that line.

The gressest expense attending it at first would be the purchase of the cloth for chirts, and the necessary food to statain life until they could dispose of some of their wars. The strong, healthy women sould weth and iron them, and get them up in good style for the market. The work on antire is all done by wemen, except the cutting; and, as that is done by measurement, and is a much easier task than cutting stylish dresses, women are perfectly competent to do it. If the work can be done and is done by women, why should they not have the benefit of it, and put the profits in their own pockets, instead of putting them into the pockets of their masters.

Here is a chance for those ladies who are engaged in the women surface movement, and when women have demonstrated their ability to administer to their own recessities, and to improve their own condition, the men will not keep them the alactive franchise. Man is women as friend, and will aid her when the is willing to receive aid. Charity between the is willing to receive aid. Chari

AFRAID OF "HUTCH."

In pursuance of its promise to aid the provison-dealers Committee in investigating sour nests, The Taisura has laid before that Comnities some very complete statements from the provision man of Philadelphia and Baltimore, come statements from dealers in this city, which rould have been more complete if they (the lealers) had not been afraid of "Hutch," and a tatement from an official Inspector of Proisions. The Committee will bear us witness nat our reporter labored bravely and indusricusty to obtain information, but, as the packers were afraid of "Hutch," and the provision calers were afraid of "Hutch," and the brokera were afraid of "Hutch," and the provision dealers were afraid of "Hutch," and the brokers were afraid of "Hutch," and the Committee were afraid of "Hutch,"—everyone except our reporter, apparently, being afraid of "Hutch,"—ha made very little headway. He was taken into remote corners and mysteriously whispered to, so that "Hutch" might not hear. Pickets were thrown out to give the alarm if "Hutch" should be seen bearing down mon them. The brokers did not ing down upon them. The brokers did not to give their names, because "Hutch'. Id see them in print, and, finally, Dow rerould see them in print, and, finally, Dow re-used to serve on the Committee, because he result afraid of "Butch," Here, then, we have me element which enters into the sour-meat uniness,—the fear of "Butch,"—and to this coint we direct the attention of the Committee, aggesting to them that, if they can contrive one way to disarm "Butch" of his terrors and aspire brokers and dealers with a little pluck percentage of sour in a pile of ment shall make it unmerchantable. When a course of gradual decay sets in, as it does in sick-iots, no man's inspection can arrest it." This I testimony, also, we commend to the Committee, with the additional suggestion that they investigate and see to what meen the fear of "Hutch" dominates the In, spectors. As we have already said, the statement of the Inspector shows that "some sour" an go into a pile of meat without making it unmerchantable and that the amount that can conin is left to the discretion of the Inspector.

Hence, the Inspector is very anxious to know just what percentage of sour he must put in, in just what percentage of sour he must put in, in under not to lose his place. So long as the Inspector is liable to be dismissed, and the forenam of the packing-house to lose his blace also, if they allow sour meats to accumulate on the premises, it should be definitely settled whether meat abould be all our, or half sour, or one-third sour to be mershantable, and whether a percentage of sour less than one-third can be ventured upon without languer of "Hutch." Bome decision on this anger of "Hutch." Some decision on this coint should be made immediately, not only for a raise of the Inspectors and foremen, so that say can be sure of their places, but also for the dief of packers themselves. It is discressing them not to know what percentage of "sour" akee a lot merchantable. Listen to the story makes a lot merchantable. Listen to the story of Mr. Culbertson's woes. He says:

I will filtustrate the matter so that the public may at most see the point of my rumarks, though we cannot tell the why and the wiserefore. Our house last weak bought some shoulders from another house, and sent our private inspector, who has had a large and varied apperture at the business, to inspect them. Our inspector world should one day, and got but should the appearance at the business, to inspect them. Our inspector world should one day, and got but should the acceptant of most, and, in doing this, he rejected rom 25 to 20 per cent as sour. We, of course, refused to accept any but what were sound. The shoulders thich the temperior had selected and accepted were moved to one of our storehouses, and within two sys the same imprector again went over them, and und the 40 per cent of those which a couple of days force had round to be sweet were now sour.

Insumnah as 30 per cent soured one day, and per cent two days after, it is fair to presume at the remaining 30 per cent lost no time in uring. This is a point also to which the Com-

When the Judge told the Crier to announce that the Court would adjourn, a Methodist clergyman arose and interrupted the Crier, telling him to hold on, as he had something to say. Having quieted the Crier and the Court, he announced the time and place for a temperance meeting, and, having done so, kindly allowed the Court to be recognized. The result of these unique proceedings for a day or two, of course, was a decision in favor of the women. Not one of them was arrested for contempt. Suppose, however, that two or three hundred salcon-keepers should undertake this method of brow-beating a Court! ing a Court of model buil of sent frie

THE COMMON COUNCIL.

The expiration of the Mayor's bill retires the Mayor from the President's chair in the Common Council. The Council, therefore, will have to select a presiding officer at the meeting tomorrow night. There are several aspirants: Mr. Cullerton, of the Seventh Ward; Mr. McGrath, of the Fifteenth Ward; Mr. Dixon, of the Second Ward; Mr. Lengacher, of the Seventeenth Ward; and parhaps others. These Aldermen are all Republicans, and Cullerton and McGrath are members of the Legislature. They are all members of the party who carried the city at the last election, except Dixon. There are several other members of the Council from whom a respectable President might be chosen; but it is not likely that the "23" will permit any but one of their own number to be elected. THE COMMON COUNCIL that the "23" will permit any but one of their own number to be elected.

The minority of the Council have a duty to perform which they must not shirk. While of themselves they cannot elect, they may have it in their power to control the election to the extent of choosing the least discreditable person named by the other side. It is possible, too, that, if a gentleman like Ald. Moore, who is known to the whole Board as a most excellent presiding officer, were presented, some of the "23" might vote for and sleet him. We do not know what sort of a presiding officer Onlierton know what sort of a presiding officer Onlierton would make, but anybody in the Board would be better than McGrath, though that fact alone may impel the "23" to elect him. In that choice no respectable Alderman ought to take part, except to protest against it by his vote.

THE PRICE OF BEER. We believe that the cultivation of the taste for lager-beer as a substitute for the flery alcoholic beverages used by the drinking portion of the community is one of the best possible move-ments in the cause of temperance. If the com-pounds retailed at the bare in this city, under the names of whisky, brandy, and gin, and even as wine, were analyzed, the wonder would not be that men are poisoned by the use of liquor, but that the number thus poisoned is not tenfold greater than it is. While we do not advise any tectotalier to use beer, we think it would be a happy circumstance if the consumption of the latter were doubled and that of sicobolic drinks diminished one half. When beer shall become the national beverage, there will be an immense reduction, not only of the number of drunkards, but of those whose minds, nerves, and bodies are seriously injured by the poisonous adulterations now sold in saloons. the names of whisky, brandy, and gin, and even

There has been for several weeks a warm con-troversy going on between the brewers and the saloonists over the price of beer. Hereto-fore the brewers have charged $10 per barred, but recently fley advanced the price to $12, on secount of the suhanced price of barley and hops. Against this the retailers united in a pro-test, and made a defensive alliance. They offer-ed to pay $10 a barrel and no more. After sev-eral mades of resolving and counter-resolving eral weeks of resolving and counter-resolving, the Milwankes brewers, for certain political reasons, "caved," and broke down the Chicago the bad faith of the Milwankee brewers, went business. The internal revenue tax on beer and fermented liquous is $1 a barrel. The receipts of internal revenue from this source during the fiscal year 1879-3 were $8,910,823 for the whole country, which represents, of course, the same number of barrels. The advance of $2 a barrel would have made a difference of nearly $18,000,000. It was therefore no insignificant matter over which these men were quar-

But there is another party interested in the fight, and that is the beer-consumer. Ever since the Government resorted to a tax on fermented liquous there has been a steady increase in the price of the barrel, and as steady a decrease in the size of the muga. The latter have so dwindled that at this time the average mug contains less than half of a pint, and the price is five cents. It is claimed by the retaillers that the browers make $2 a larged profit when they sell at $10 per barrel. Alow let us see what the retailers make at that price: Each barrel contains thirty-two gallons of beer, which gives 256 pints; thus, retailed at 5 cents per mug, and two mugs to a pint, produces a total of $25,80 per barrel. Deducting the cost, the net profit on each barrel is $15.60. Where there is a brisk business, and where several barrels are sold in a day, there is little or no waste, and the sales are cash. Beducing the profit to $15 per barrel, the rate of profit is 150 per cent, and the capital required is very small. Some of these barrel, the rate of profit is 150 per cent, and the capital required is very small. Some of these establishments sell as many as a dozen barrels a day. The average capital required is $32 for license; $50 for a month's rent in gdvace; $500 for furniture; and $10 for beer. Selling one barrel of beer a day would, in thirty days, give $450 profit on $612 capital invested.

Now, the consumers should instate the action of the retailers, and refuse to patronize any establishment that does not give at least one-third of a quart of clear beer for five cents. This would leave the retailers a profit of nearly $6.20 on every harrel, or nearly 100 per cent. The amount of annual expenditure involved in this business is very great, and is on the increase. Assuming that the brewers get $10 a barrel, their gross receipts amount to nearly $90,000,000 a year. The retailers, upon the assumption that it is sold in all parts of the country at the same price it is sold in Chicago, receive an average of $35 for each harrel, $15 of which is profit. Putting the whole consumption at $,000,000 berrels, the comhole consumption at 9,000,000 barrels, the con-more expend in the aggregate $225,000,000, was the attendance at all the sessions of num-bers of women who were not needed as wit-nesses or judges. Though warned that the tea-timony would be unfit to hear, they clung to their seats and listened unblushingly to vile accusations bandled between their minister and their Deacons. "Sir," said an attorney in a di their Deacons. "Sir," said an attorney in a di-vorce case, "this testimony is very bad; I move your flower that the court-room be cleared of ladies before we proceed." "The motion is un-necessary," was the reply; "no lady would re-main here." We commend the incident to the feminine attendants at the McCarthy trial.

The trial has so far been not only scandalous, but unfair. McCarthy forfeited whatever slight claim he had on public sympathy by his disgus-ing sermon in reply to his accusers. He is conclaim no and on puone sympathy by an disgus-ing sermon in raply to his accusary. He is con-demped out of his own mouth. But the Council that neard the accusations against him was prob-sbly as untair a tribunal as ever set in America. It gagged the friends and cheered on the foce of McCarthy. It refused to hear the latter. It actually declined to give him the specifications on acrually decimed to give him the specifications on which he was tried, and then permitted him to be called a flar when he said he had not re-ceived them. We believe the pitiful spite that showed itself at first by providing bounteous lunches for anti-McCartnylies, and leaving the opposite faction to starve, ran its course before the Council adjourned. The same spirit shows however, in other ways, doidy of

The utter folly of the whole proceeding will only be understood when it is known that this Council, after raking over all the filth that both parties present for its consideration, can do nothing save advise the Union Park Baptists to sever or not to sever the pastoral relation. The former advice will, of course, be given. It ought to be. Then we shall have more mob-meetings to be. Then we shall have more more more more to to religion. It is about that getting rid of a minister should involve such double toil and trouble. The churches would be vise should they adopt a rule that the signing of a paper requesting a minister to resign by a majority of the congruints. minister to resign by a majority of the congregation should competely sever the bond between pastor and people. If this were part of the Bap-tist Constitution now, McCarthy could be ejected at once, without scandal. The meeting which voted to retain him probably represented the congregation no more than a town-meeting in West Chicago represents that part of the city. A majority against him could be easily found. How much better to get rid of a ministerial sin-ner in this way than to suffer his misdeeds to embroil his whole embroil his whole congregation and himself in such scandalous squabbles as the one that now disgraces the West Side Baptists. Fortunately, we shall have a breathing space till March 81. The Council has adjourned until then in order to give McCarthy time to prepare his defense. What that defense will be can best be inferred from his own statement that he cannot clear himself unless he shows that some of the members of his church are the "worse villains on earth."

SUNDAY-AFTERNOON LECTURES. The Chicago Sunday-Afternoon Lecture Society has been duly organized. It proposes to cleiv has been duly organized. It proposes to go to work at once. The first lecture in its course for this spring will perhap be given next funday. The object of the f ciety, as act north in its articles of association, is "the smataining of Sunday-afternoon lectures on religious, scientific, artistic, literary, and historical subjects." Its meetings will be held at such hours that they will not interfere with the regular services in the churches. It is hoped that its membership will be as varied as that of the London Sunday-Lecture Society, which has on its rolls members of all the different denominations, orthodox and heterodox. While the Society will rolls members of all the different denominations, orthodox and haterodox. While the Secrety will not attempt to diotate to its lecturers either their not attempt to dictate to its lecturers either their subjects or their treatment of them, it will try to select as speakers men who will be apt to make their sayings as popular and as practical as possible. The lectures on acience will be illustrated by experiments; those on art by pictures. Religious (not theological) subjects will be treated of from time to time, though the especial mission of the Bociety is to preach truth rather than faith. In order to meet the wants of the heavers as fully as possible, a box will be placed in the lecture-room to receive requests for particular speakers or subjects. Due attention will be paid to these. A small hall in the southwest part of the city will be hired, to begin with. This locality is chosen because it is comparatively destinte of millions of pounds.

At 4 velock in the afternoon of Friday, Feb. 18, a slight fire was discovered in one of the inner rooms. There was a scarcity of water. The fire spread. The alarm was given. In fifteen minutes the London Fire-Brigade was at work. The water supply continued scanty. Before long the hope of sawing the building or its contenia was given up. At 4 o'clock Saturday morning the fire died for lack of finel. Only pieces of the outside walls were left standing, and "the whole piace seemed to have crumpled in." The English papers and reviews are full of editorials and correspondence on the leasons taught by such a fire. Chicago figures, of course, as an awful warning. The Subsyday Review thinks we will probably burn up again, while the Spectator says, with that delightful accuracy which always marks English statements about this country: "Trimity Church, Chicago, a building of red brick only, stood the fire out bravely, though the flames ticked its walls and fell none the worse for a scorehing to which it had been acclimatized." English architects, builders, and editors seem to agree on the following points, which we commend to the attention of a city which was burned for lack of attention to them: Iron, as a protection against fire, is a delusion and a source from pillars are wholly untrustworthy, because they hend when heated. When coated with plaster, their resisting capacity is more than doubled. From beams heated. When coated with plaster, their resisting capacity is more than doubled. Iron beams expand very quickly when exposed to fire, and so throw down walls. Wooden beams, properly protected, sometimes stand heat much better than iron once do. Concrete and tile floors are better than stone. Brick is by far the best fire-resister. Yet it is vain to expect to save buildings which contain combinatible goods from conflagrations, though we build with greatest care, unless there are hydrants on every floor and a great pressure of water within them.

It is consoling to know that, while Chicago has a monopoly of almost exerything which makes life desirable, she has not a monopoly of church disputations. So, when we review the present condition of religious affairs in this city, we do condition of religious affairs in this city, we do not despond at the gloomy and the perturbed aspect that is presented, but look about over the land and behold other cities and communities rent and toru by dissensions in like manner.
The heresy-hunters are not all on the track of Prof. Swing and Dr. McKaig,—other ministers besides that "broth of a boy," the Rev. Florence McCarthy, have trouble with their congre-vations,—there are other polemic editors besides Patton and our brother of the Adocouse, who writes for a salary and puts his trust in an advertising agent; and there are other religious troubles that Drs. Everts. Collyer, and Cheney know not of.

Down (or up) in our neighboring village of Milwaukee, whose quiet ways and rural shades are especially provocative of pastoral poetry and religious meditation, the uneasy spirit of doubt has got abroad among the churches, and the thuological bayonets bristle and flash in the light of the setting sun. They have in one of their oldest and wealthiest Congregational churches a Rev. Mr. Dudley, whose Sunday morning discourses have had so much pith in them that they have been phonographically reported for one of the daily papers, and their sentiments have attracted considerable attention among all classes of people. Having some originality, he is set down as a heretic by one portion of the vertising agent; and there are other religious community, and is charply criticised for the preverent way he has of treating what he conirreverent way he has of treating what he considers the allegories that exist both in the Bible and in the different systems of religion that have blessed or cursed the world. Recently Mr. Dudley preached a sermon, in which he stated that nobody believed nowadays "that Lot's wife was turned into a pillar of salt, or that Jonah spent three days in the whale's helly." Whereupon there comes forward newspaper correspond-ent Number One, who cites chapter and yerse to show wherein. Christ and the Bev. Mr. Dudley

In the 17th chapter of Luke's Gospel we find the Great Teacher tell his hearers to take wagning from what befell Lot's wife; and in the 12th chapter of Matthew He said; "As Jones was three days and three nights in the whale's belly, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth."

This was simced as uncomfortable a fix for Mr. Dudley as it was for Jonah, for it is unpleasant for a professedly orthodox minister to be

who alashes with his theological cleaver in this way:

There is not so much similarity, in essentials, be trees Mr. Dudley and Hoses Ballou, as there is between Ballou and John Calvin; both of these teachers derived their "slock in trade" from "Adam's fall, and made man's salvation a "commercial transaction;" with this difference only: Ballou's transaction;" with this difference only: Ballou's transaction; was the vendor in both cases, and the settlement of the estate of a pankrupt who had "hung out more than he could dry "being the cause of the sale. Parter believed man is "loo good to be damned," and hence those is no future punishment.

Now hir. Dudley teaches that the deeff never had any interest in man, are as man's voluntary partner; that he acquired no title to the race through Adam's "haches;" that, while man is not an inheritor of damnation, he incurs it through violation of the have of his being, and there is no dodging that "he that plays must pay;" that Currie came in the fullness of time "to make known the wife of The Father," to show men how to avoid the devil—that is, by "leiding him severely slone;" and to help the broken.

It is not often that one sees so much Chamber of Commerce using and legal jargon made available in a religious controversy, and we make the supposition free of charge to our dignified brothers of the Interior and Advocate that they immediately change their base to the redical and surgestion free of charge to our dignified brothers of the Interior and Advocate that they immediately change their base to the radical and free-thinking City of Milwankee, and teach those cream-colored polemies good manners, even if they cannot improve their doctrines.

A LOST KING.

Kings who have lost their thrones are not uncommon newadays. Europe is stocked with played-out Bourbous. But a King who loses himself, disappears from sight, and then comes up as one of the great army of "cisimants," is a rarity. The Courts of Trance have just been busy again, for the fifth or sixth time, in finding out whether the Dauphin, the son of Louis XVI., did or did not die in his cell in the Temple. The evidence on both sides is strong. Official reports show that "the young Capet" was treated with shocking severity by his jailor, Simon the shoemaker. He was kept in a dark room, alone save for the occasional visits of Simon and his wife. When he setted for toys, he was given a small guillotine. He had to clean Simon's shoes and do the most menial offices for him. He was savagely beaten, struck in the face with his jailor's tron-healed shoes, kicked, abused. When the name "Young Capet" had lost its power to insult, the unbappy Prince was called "wolf-out," "upper," and "toad." His condition when Simon was removed in time described;
His bed had not been struck for ats months, and he had not thought to make it himself; it ran alive with vermin. His lines and person was colored as well as grated, was never opened, and the infections and of that horist room was so dreadful that no one could bear it for a monemit.

No boy of 8 years could stand such treatment long. The Dauphin did not, according to the reports submitted to the Convention. Simon's successors, Lasne and Gomain, treated the half-dead boy with kindness. They were watched by dead boy with kindness. They were watched by a member of one of the Paris Committees,—a new man every day. The little prisoner died on June 8, 1795. A few moments before life field be took Gomain's hand and kinsed it, while the jailor prayed. He was asked if he felt much pain. "Yes, but not so much; the music is so pain. "Yes, but not so much; the music is so fine." "Where do you hear music?" "Up there; listen, listen?" Then he suddenly started, and said; "I hear my mother's voice among them." Then he added, "I hope my sister hears the music." A moment later he beckened to Lame, saying: "I have consching to tell you." Tame leaned down to hear, but the boy lay dead. This seems like a straight story. There can be no doubt that it was generally believed in Paris, despite the few rumons of escape that had been whispered around during the year preceding the Dauphin's death. Nevertheless, half-a-dozen men have claimed to be Louis XVII.

The pretender best known on this side of the water is the Rev. Eleazer Williams, who died in 1853. He was a missionary among the Indians, and is said to have rully supplied their spiritual wants by furnishing them with the Word of God on Sundays and with whisky on weak days. His claims excited some attention in 1853, but there was scarcely a shadow of proof to rest upon. His boasted resemblance to the Bourbon family seems to have consisted in a certain duly stolidity of face. A person named Richemond. family seems to have consisted in a certain dull stellidity of face. A person named Richemond appeared in Paris during the reign of Louis XVIII., and was promptly sentenced to twelve years' "seclusion" for daring to pretend to be the dead Douphrn. The other claimants were men of no note, with one exception. It is the son of this exceptional pretender who has just lost his case in the courts. His advocate, Julies Favre, made a romance of the case. In his speech before the Court, he alleged that the Dauphin was put into a deep sleep by a dose of onium, and amaggled into a secret place in the top of one of the towers of the Temple. First a lay figure and then a deaf-and-dumb child were substituted for him. Poison was given to the latter, but his life, was saved by an antidote prepared by a shilful doctor. The deafer was then prisoned. A sick child from a hospital, warranted to dis within a few days, was then substituted for the deaf-and-dumb one. The warranty held good.

provides is bestified the genine may of the berry better and the provided of t Holland, where he died,—from poison, is is said.

He left two children,—a daughter, and a son, Adalbart Naundork, now a Lieutenant in the Dutch army. They sued for their alleged rights in 1851 and lost. It is an appeal from that decision which has just now been tried. The judgment of '21 has been reafficued. According to the defense, Naundork, the elder, was been in Prassian Poland, was a watchmaker at Spandau in 1812, was tried for arrow in Brandenburg in 1822, and was soon after sanianced to three years' imprisonment with hard labor for counterfeiting. There can be no doubt, however, that many persons believed in firm shan he first showed himself in Paris. And there can be no doubt that young Naundorff will always find persons to believe that he, and not the Count de Chambord, is the heir by divine right to the Throne of France. The secunt of the Bourbon will hang 'round him still.

UNITARIANIEM IN INDIA. The religious people of India are somewhat interested, if not excited, ever the seal and activity that are at present manifested by the new sect called the Brahmo Soura; The Society seems to be essentially Unitarian in its faith and practice, and dates its organization no further back than 1830; but in 1855 there was a split, corresponding in secre aspects of the disagreement between the two parties, to the divisions that have reot in twain the Unitarian denomination in the United Sistes,—one wing being vary radical, and the other quite urthodox and conservative. The similarity between the movement in that country and in this is still further traceable in the fact that the young men are leaders of the radical wing as they are here, further traceable in the fact that the young men are leaders of the radical ving as they are tere, and Baboo Debendra Sath Tagore and Baboo Kashub Chunder Sen are to the India free-religionists what Frothingham, Higginson, and Hala are to the mame missain this country. The Brahmos are theists, believing in the unity and father-hood of God, the brotherhood of the human race, the need of conversion to God through fath and prayer, and completed by Divine grass. They deny the doctrine of the endless punishment of the wicked, and are opposed to what they call the "sublime agotism and self-assertion" of Jesus Christ. Indeed, some of these Rindoo radicals are quite in advance of R. C. Towns and John Wiess in the contemptuous notions with which they pretend to view the marite of the Savior of the world. But they are progressive in other respects that entitle them to credit and encouragement. They scoopt truth from whatever source it can be obtained; they have taken a firm stand against idolatry; they go for the abolition of caste; they are endeavoring to reform Hindu marriage customs, and they accept many of the truths which Christ fangle, but stubbornly deny His Divine Personality.

The result of this movement may not amount

The result of this movement may not amount to much as viewed from a Christian standpoint; nevertheless, any system or organization that favors free and independent thought on the part of its followers is doing a good service to a people as idolatrons and biroted at those of India.

Mr. Storey continues to write letters to himself arging him all not to hill Dr. Johnson, but to prosecute him for libel in the source of law.

applied and wors in two ounce cases Transes had been mistakes for Hernia, readering necessary in the latter case a surgical operation. These Transes were recommended and applied by gentlemen in the beainess (in this city), who advertise themselves as competent to diagnose and treat Hernia. In our opinion, based upon a large number of cases of mal-practice of the above nature, and the authority of all standard works on this subject, no apparanus of any kind should be applied to either maginary or genuine Hernia without it is advice of a competent surgean, and the superintend mee in applying the upparature. With this object in view, we would respectually announce to the profession and public that we are repared to furnish and apply the most approved apparatus for all kinds of Hernia, either under its a dvice and irection of the parient's medical attendant, or that of a suspected surgeon tennesisately consected with over obsections.

DRY CLEANING.

THE PUBLIC:

THE NEW PROCESS for cleaning Ladies' and Gentlemm's Clothing, just brought out by Aug. Schwarz, is acknewledged superior to any method of cleaning ever introduced in the West. Ladies' Saits in SIE, Woolen, and mixed goods, also Embrodiered Sacques. Dollman, &c. are being cleaned and made to look like new. This DRY-CLEANING PROCESS does not necessitate the ripping of the garment, or the removal of overcomments of the processitate of the conditional process. All goods treated in this manner retain their original metre and shape.
